

AOGP

Services to health professionals

Chairperson Report

The AOGP Board made a considered decision at the beginning of 2016 to build on its education programs to train GPs and expand its range of services to support general practice, in scope and geography.

AOGP's activities for 2016 have been based on identifying gaps in the market in line with our commitment to support high quality general practice. Our main focus in 2016 has been on Fellowship exam and Australian Medical Council support, along with growing the Quality Practice Network by providing services of relevance and value. In partnership with the Rural Doctors Workforce Agency, AOGP has provided education, training and support to two intern posts in Kadina and Jamestown.

The AOGP board would like to thank Dr Tim Kelly and the AOGP team for their continued dedication and efforts that have seen AOGP through to a new era. The goal for 2017 is to ensure that AOGP is able to develop its business to secure a stable financial position for the years ahead.

CEO Report

2016 was a year of change and opportunity for AOGP. With a small band of committed staff we have worked hard to consolidate and refashion our educational content and programs to provide value into new markets. We have maintained and grown our relationships with medical educators in South Australia and our goal is now to grow our networks on a national scale.

We have determined that there is a need for high quality exam preparation courses with a mix of online and face-to-face workshops. Our ability to use our educational content and expertise across best available platforms will be critical to determining our future success.

We spent the early part of the year consulting with practices to determine if and where we could provide value. This consultation led to the formation of the AOGP Quality Practice Network, and we are now providing benchmarking services, networking events, CPD and other member benefits to 13 practices, with a goal to increase this engagement through 2017.

We have been generally pleased with the level of enthusiasm and engagement from other organisations and businesses with an interest in primary care and we look forward to continuing to build on our profile, partnerships and output into the future.
